

Ketra Anderson
Crowley Maritime Corporation

I have worked in the marine transportation industry in Alaska since 1985. I spent five years living and working in Bethel, Alaska for Kuskokwim Transportation Company, a joint venture between Kuskokwim Native Corporation and Crowley Marine Services. I started as an accounting supervisor, after a year moved to marine operations as a freight traffic manager. 1988 I moved to Anchorage and began working for Crowley Marine Services as Specialist, in vessel operations.

In 2000 my focus became recruitment and people development - primarily employment opportunities for rural Alaskans. In 2001 I began the development of the Alaska Native program to meet our workforce goals to increase Alaska Native employment, training, and promotional opportunities in support of our Alyeska contract in Valdez, Alaska.

I currently work for Crowley Maritime Corporation in Environmental Safety, and Quality Assurance as a Health and Safety Manager

I serve on the State Advisory Board and the Curriculum Advisory board for Alaska Vocational Technical Training Center.
