Understanding Electrical Hazards Safety workshop to be held in Anchorage

ANCHORAGE, Alaska—Alaska Occupational Safety and Health (AKOSH) will culminate National Safety Month with a training workshop, “Understanding Electrical Hazards,” on June 30, 2015. This 2-hour workshop is open to the public and free of charge. It is designed to help attendees understand the purpose of the Code of Federal Regulations and how to identify electrical hazards in the workplace. Topics will include: History of AC/DC; Electricity Basics; and Electrical Hazards in General Industry and Construction.

Training will be from 10am to 12pm, at 3301 Eagle Street Room 104 in Anchorage. AKOSH training certifications will be issued upon completion of this course. Space will be limited and registration is required. Call 907-269-4955 for more information or to register.
