This bulletin supersedes Bulletin 13-03, Electronic Reporting and Updated Reporting Forms.

Reports of Injury and compensation reports, also known as Subsequent Reports of Injury, must be filed with the Division through electronic data interchange (EDI). Alaska follows the reporting standards developed by the International Association of Industrial Accident Boards and Commissions (IAIABC).

Insurers, self-insured employers, and claims administrators that file reports must register with the Division's electronic data interchange (EDI) vendor, and complete a Trading Partner Profile. Trading partners may submit reports directly, use an approved EDI vendor, or enter reports in Verisk's Jurisdiction Web Entry portal. The general paper-filing option under Bulletin 13-03 ends when this bulletin takes effect. See the Alaska EDI Requirements for technical specifications.

Employers should promptly provide injury or illness information to their insurer or claims administrator, who files the report with the Division through EDI.

For more information, visit the Alaska EDI website http://www.adoledi.info/ or the IAIABC website at http://www.iaiabc.org.
